- In writing through the youth and family grievance process.

PREA Audits

PREA audits must be conducted at both facilities by a U.S. Department of Justice-certified auditor. Lincoln Center was last audited in 2017 and was found to be in full compliance with the juvenile standards. The final report of that PREA audit, and the preceding audit of Lincoln Center, which occurred in 2015, is posted on this website. Calumet Center was most recently audited in October 2018. The final audit report is pending, awaiting completions of corrective actions to fully meet each of the juvenile standards. The final report will be posted on this onsite when issued. The previous PREA audit final report for Calumet Center, from 2015, is posted on this website.

PREA audits are robust and auditors are exacting in requiring that facilities comply with all the PREA juvenile standards. As a result, facilities that have successfully completed an audit will have youth, staff, and investigators that are better educated on their rights and responsibilities under PREA for zero tolerance of sexual abuse and harassment. PREA Standards require youth and staff education, require that youth have the unrestricted right to use a grievance process and other avenues to report allegations, and that reporting youth and supporting witnesses be protected from retaliation for reporting. A full listing of the juvenile standards can be found online at the National PREA Resource Center website.
